

ANN LANDERS

It's Insecurity

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with a person who insists on making scenes in restaurants? My brother-in-law seems to enjoy bawling out waiters, yelling at busboys — anything to get attention. Although no one else seems to notice, he's constantly complaining that the silverware isn't clean, the glasses are cloudy, the table linen is wrinkled, the sugar is lumpy, the salt shakers don't pour freely, the service is slow, there's too much noise in the kitchen — and on and on and on. Why would a person behave like this?—EMBAF SASSE

Dear Em: Anyone who must abuse waiters and busboys and find fault with the silver, the glasses, the linens, the salt and sugar, etc., is pathetically insecure. If and when your brother-in-law develops some self-esteem and a measure of contentment, he will not find it necessary to abuse those who are paid to serve him to prove that he is better than they are.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband left for Vietnam one month after our son was born. My father has become so attached to little Ricky that it is making me nervous. Dad comes over every evening to see the boy. On weekends he takes Rick to the park, the pool, the fair and shopping. Of course I go along but I feel like a third wheel because Dad takes complete charge.

I see a father-son relationship developing and I'm afraid when my husband returns, there will be trouble. Please tell me what to do.—ANONYMOUSLY WORRIED

Dear Worried: Your child is fortunate to have an adoring grandpa who wants to spend time with him while his daddy is at war. When your husband returns he will assume the father role. Give time and Grandpa will step back. Relax.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 14 and have children, especially babies. Being an only child, I haven't had much experience taking care of them. When I babysit I usually for five-year-olds and up.

A woman I sit for now is expecting a new baby in January. She has already promised me her business. I am afraid I don't know enough about taking care of infants, Ann, but I'd like to learn. What do you suggest?—WILLING

Dear Willing: The best way to learn to care for a new baby is by letting the mother teach you. Ask the woman if she will allow you to watch her feed and change the baby. Then ask if you can "practice" in her presence.

There are also schools and organizations such as the Red Cross which conduct "well baby clinics." Some of them will allow a conscientious sitter to attend classes when there is room to spare. Call and inquire.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of the Press-Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25c in coin.

State Suspends Liquor Licenses

SACRAMENTO — The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control today ordered suspensions in the case of two Torrance on-sale liquor establishments on counts involving minors. A 15-day suspension, effective beginning Dec. 12, was ordered for the Shindig's on-sale beer license for permitting a minor to consume on the premises. It is located at 2085 Torrance Blvd. Against the on-sale general license held by Stowaway Lounge, Inc., the department ordered a 15-day suspension on three counts to run concurrently, beginning Dec. 12. Ten days were stayed provided there are no further violations within the year.

HOMECOMING ROYALTY . . . Queen Linda Habib (center) is surrounded by her court of princesses for the annual Homecoming celebration at El Camino College. The traditional event will be climaxed Saturday with a parade prior to the El Camino-Bakersfield football game in Murdock Stadium. Parade time is set for 7 p.m. with game schedule for 8 p.m. Serving as Homecoming princesses are (from left) Pat Rider, Linda Cirillo, Louise Johnson, and Donna Pearson.

W. A. KAMRATH Wins Award

Advisor To Get Award

W. A. Kamrath, El Camino College journalism instructor, will receive the award of "Distinguished Newspaper Adviser for 1968" from the National Council of College Publication Advisors in New York tonight.

Kamrath is a resident of Redondo Beach and joined the EC faculty in 1953. Active in junior college journalism education, Kamrath is a long-time member of Beta Phi Gamma, national junior college honorary journalism fraternity, is a past president of the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges, and is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national men's journalism society. Kamrath also serves as adviser to the ECC newspaper, the Warhoop, which has received 29 all-American ratings and is the only junior college newspaper in the United States to receive two Pacemaker awards.

In 1961 he was presented with a resolution of commendation from the Board of Trustees, the only one ever presented to a faculty member. He is also a staff writer for "This Day" magazine and is listed in "Who's Who" in California.

Space Program

A spacemobile sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will visit Carson High School, 22328 S. Main St., Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Count Marco Try Smiling on Those Errands

When I see you American women racing down to the market, standing in line for the motion pictures, or just puttering around the yard, you are generally wearing a pained, pained expression of concentration, I have the impression your shoes are at least two sizes too small.

Why don't you light up your everyday errands and work with a smile? Of course, there are all kinds of smiles, too, so don't try the Mona Lisa type unless it suits you. The best kind is a big, friendly one to show you know there is somebody besides yourself around and you are happy about it.

When you must say something critical about a person or an object, soften the blow by putting a smile in your voice. Don't be the kind of woman who never says anything good about a motion picture, a play, a painting or, most important, your man.

Don't think it's smart and sophisticated to complain or to tear people apart. Remember, the laughter and applause of your friends for your smart remarks will also be showered on someone else when, the minute your back is turned, it's your turn to be clawed.

Your man hates to be nagged in a bossy way — and too many of you are inclined to be domineering. But if you just smile and suggest, your man will want to do everything for you.

You don't want other women to think your man doesn't love you any more. That's exactly their reaction when they see your unsmiling faces and hear your unsmiling voices.

Be kind. If you set yourself up as bitter authority, you must expect the same bitter, critical appraisal of yourself.

It is the smart wife who praises her husband, constantly admires his accomplishments, smiles her constructive criticisms. When you compare, compare in his favor and constantly encourage him.

Whatever you say to him, smile when you do it. His gratefulness will be your big reward. What else do you want?

Chamber Outlines New 'Program for Action'

A new and much broader program of work—designed to meet the needs of the business and professional community and Torrance citizens—has been established by the board of directors of the Torrance Area Chamber of Commerce. The aims and objectives, and a detailed explanation of planned activities have been included in a mailing to all members, according to President George M. Ebert.

In a message to the membership, Ebert pointed out that the chamber is the voice of responsible business leadership in the community. And if the community is to continue its progress uninterrupted, it is incumbent on all merchants, manufacturers, professional men, distributors, and public-spirited citizens to work together in solving common problems and in building a better future for all, he added.

Ebert noted that this year's program of work includes twice as many committees than have existed before. He said that these groups cover "just about every facet of the needs of our community."

He called upon all members to study the program and then choose a committee or committees where the individual believes he or she can best help attain the objectives sought.

It is the intention of the board of directors that every member be invited to participate in the activities of at least one committee. Ebert has extended invitations to member firms.

Inglewood Coed Homecoming Queen Named at College

Miss Linda Habib will reign as El Camino College's 1968 Homecoming Queen along with her court, consisting of Miss Pat Rider, first princess; Miss Donna Pearson, second princess; Miss Louise Johnson, third princess; and Miss Linda Cirillo, fourth princess.

The queen and her court were chosen from 19 candidates on the basis of service to the college, poise, personality, general appearance, and service to the community by the 12 judges at a special Homecoming Queen banquet last Monday night.

Their itinerary for the Homecoming activities will include the coronation rally tomorrow. They will ride on the Queen's float during the Homecoming parade prior to the game against Bakersfield Saturday night. The festivities will conclude with their presentation at the Homecoming dance after the game.

MISS HABIF is a 20-year-old physical education major who plans to transfer to California State College at Long Beach next semester. She is a graduate of Inglewood High, where she was basketball princess, senior homecoming princess and sweetheart princess. She also was Miss Inglewood during 1966-67.

Miss Rider is a graduate of Frankford High in Philadelphia. As an EC student, she is a member, captain, and treasurer of the El Camettes and a member of the concert choir. She plans to graduate from El Camino and transfer to Southern Methodist University to obtain her BA and MA in music and secondary education.

GARDENA High alumnus Miss Pearson, a secretarial major, is second princess. She is a member of the Newman Club, student council, Inter-Club Council chairman, and plans to transfer to Cal State, Long Beach. Miss Johnson, another

Gardena graduate, is currently president of the ECC Associated Women Students and Theta Psi Epsilon, a service sorority, and plans to continue her education at either Cal State Long Beach or UCLA and receive her bachelor's degree in biochemistry. Miss Cirillo is a Leuzinger graduate. She is treasurer of Tri Phi, a service sorority, and intends to transfer to USC after completing work at El Camino.

Your Second Front Page
Press-Herald
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1968 C-1

Scorpio's Urged To Give Blood

For residents of Southern Los Angeles communities born under the sign of Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Red Cross has a suggestion to make this year's birthday memorable — give blood when one of three mobiles visit the area on November.

Astrologists say that Scorpio's are the type who are successful at anything they undertake seriously, and Red Cross is eager for their type. "It's not that we're discouraging other types, because Red Cross needs all types," said Denver Bullock, Red Cross board chairman.

"However, we're concentrating on Scorpio's this month, because, as of Nov. 12, when a new California law goes into effect, 18 to 21-year-olds will be allowed to give blood without first securing written parental permission," Bullock continued.

Scorpio's who wish to establish the habit of giving annually on their birthdays can give at one of two mobiles open to the public this month. The first will visit the Elks Hall, 1820 Abalone St., Thursday, Nov. 14, from 2 to 6:30 p.m.

A second mobile is scheduled for the convenience of Gardena residents at St. Anthony of Padua Church Auditorium, 1056 W. 163rd St., Gardena, Wednesday, Nov. 27, from 3 to 7:30 p.m.

Since each of the mobiles is equipped for 150 to 250 donors, those intending to give are urged to call Red Cross at 831-0751 for appointments.

Rafferty To Speak At TRW

Dr. Max Rafferty, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate and California Superintendent of Public Instruction, will speak at TRW Systems Group Friday.

The rally is scheduled to begin at 12:15 p.m. in the patio area of Building S and is open to the public. TRW's Space Park facility is located at the corner of Aviation and Compton Blvds. Parking for the public will be available by entering Gate 1 off Compton Blvd.

Profile: Rev. Arthur Nagel Building Churches Keeps Methodist Minister Busy

REV. ARTHUR NAGEL

Always interested in youth work, the Rev. Nagel served on the board of directors with the YMCA for 16 years during his ministries in Reseda and Alhambra. It was in Alhambra that he first met Joe Wilcox, who recently resigned from the directorship of the Torrance Family YMCA to take a "Y" post in Thailand. Wilcox was in high school at the time and Nagel reports that the two used to "talk by the hour," sharing their views on everything from A to Z.

In Torrance, the Rev. Nagel has spent the last five years building the membership from 1,200 to 1,600. He's convinced that a minister is about 75 per cent responsible for the success or failure of a church, and he also believes that a church should have a new minister every six or seven years. If a pastor stays much longer than that, he says, he's likely to become ingrown and his congregation will become too attached to him.

The Rev. Nagel and his wife Alice have raised their three children to be staunch Methodists just like their forebears. Their son, the Rev. John H. Nagel, is associate minister at Riviera Methodist Church in Torrance, and their younger daughter's husband, the Rev. Fred Brossmar, is associate minister at First Methodist Church.

The Rev. Nagel is currently on a new project: building a church at Decata, Mex. And when the Rev. Nagel takes a vacation, where does he go? To Mexico, of course! Closer to home, the Rev. Nagel has pursued a 42-year career in the ministry, leading the Methodist congregations of Blythe, Santa Maria, Long Beach, Alhambra, El Centro, and finally, Reseda, before taking the reins in Torrance.

The Rev. Nagel left his hometown of Seguin, Tex., to attend Baldwin-Wallace College, a Methodist school in Beria, Ohio. From there he headed west to California and earned his master's degree in theology at USC before enrolling for a master of arts degree from Drew University in Madison, N. J.

Most recently, the Rev. Nagel directed members of his First Methodist Church of Torrance in the construction of a church in Colima, Mexico. His congregation contributed funds for the entire project and even rolled up their sleeves for much of the labor. Skilled roofers, electricians, and other craftsmen from the church worked under the Rev. Nagel's leadership to complete the edifice, although native bricklayers were hired for completion of the main sanctuary.

on a new project: building a church at Decata, Mex.

And when the Rev. Nagel takes a vacation, where does he go? To Mexico, of course!

Closer to home, the Rev. Nagel has pursued a 42-year career in the ministry, leading the Methodist congregations of Blythe, Santa Maria, Long Beach, Alhambra, El Centro, and finally, Reseda, before taking the reins in Torrance.

The Rev. Nagel left his hometown of Seguin, Tex., to attend Baldwin-Wallace College, a Methodist school in Beria, Ohio. From there he headed west to California and earned his master's degree in theology at USC before enrolling for a master of arts degree from Drew University in Madison, N. J.